

Exchange Programme

As a confidence-building measure, India and China have decided to launch an ambassador-exchange programme. Five Indian ambassadors posted in south, central and southeast Asia will tour China in the coming months to exchange views, with the neighbouring country reciprocating the gesture soon. So far, only junior diplomats of India and China were involved in such a programme.
