New India: Ahead of the Independence Day Prime Minister Mr Narendra Modi has harked back to the spirit of the momentous five years from 1942 to 1947 which shaped the destiny of modern, independent India. Those five years marked intense struggle of the countrymen to get freed from the imperial British yoke. The entire nation was fired by the singular spirit of freedom which saw millions of Indian making unprecedented sacrifices, which ultimately culminated into the British raj being thrown out. Then the people were mesmerised by the impassioned call by Mahatma Gandhi to “Quit India” to the British rulers and were drawn to the epochal struggle in a rare unity of purpose, forgetting all barriers of caste, creed, and religion. Prime Minister Mr Narendra Modi has invoked that spirit of the freedom movement for building a modern, new India. (Editorial/The Hitavada)
